About Clackamas Community College

For more than 50 years, Clackamas Community College has offered high-quality education and training opportunities, lifetime learning and robust student life programming.

The college believes in Education That Works. Whether students want to earn a degree or certificate, get an affordable jumpstart to transfer to a four-year university, or explore other possibilities, CCC is the right choice.

CCC also believes in putting education to work. The college prides itself in its strong business and workforce relationships across the district, including its partnership with Oregon City's new Beavercreek Employment Area.

CCC fosters an open, collaborative decision-making process in which every voice is important. Staff, faculty and students actively contribute their views to help shape decisions and the culture of the college.

Recognized for its committed, supportive faculty and staff, CCC offers programs and services in career technical, college transfer, literacy/basic skills, community education and business training to a diverse student body totaling more than 26,000 at three active campuses.

Each campus provides a unique learning experience, and our students thrive in the friendly, personal atmosphere that CCC supports. Thanks to successful passage of a bond measure in 2014, the college is expanding, including a new health sciences building, an industrial technical center, a science complex and a new student/community center.

The college is governed by a seven-member Board of Education. Members are elected to four-year terms and represent each of the seven zones in the college's service district, which has approximately 320,000 people. The Board hires the president, oversees the development of programs and services and adopts policies and the budget.

CCC MISSION: To serve the people of the college district with high quality education and training opportunities that are accessible to all students, adaptable to changing needs, and accountable to the community we serve.
