Work Continues at Harmony Community Campus

OREGON CITY – Improvements continue at Clackamas Community College’s Harmony Road site. With the opening of a new 46,000 square foot facility this fall, the former site of the college campus on Harmony will be razed over the next few weeks.

Once the 59-year-old building is demolished, the area will be improved to provide additional services for the Harmony Community Campus, a mixed-use site that includes education, recreation and business facilities. CCC’s new facility at the site will be the home to the college’s Health Sciences programs and will provide many essential student services.

Portions of the former CCC Harmony building have been closed for the past few years due to environmental issues. The old wood frame building was used as an elementary school before the college purchased it in the late 1980s.

Demolition will begin in the next few weeks. For information about work at CCC at Harmony Community Campus, please contact Bill Leach, dean of Campus Services, at 503-657-6958, ext. 2624.
