TELLING THE STORY OF YOU

The answer is: you know who you are...

...and you know how you will improve the world.
Some Basics

- If there is a question, answer it.
- If there are page limitations, obey them. If not, assume 2 pages as your maximum.
- Write an essay, not a letter.
- Be positive! Show a belief in yourself, and show a certainty about your goals. If you aren’t sure what your goals are, find a way to talk about the things you ARE sure of. “I know I want a career where I help people.”
Don’t rush into the structure of the essay. Take time to think about what your thesis is going to be.

Free write, brainstorm, outline, walk around talking to yourself – whatever it takes to get that seed of an idea in your head. This saves work and stress.
INTRODUCTION - THESIS

The biggest and best tip we can give you:

Your thesis is that you are in the middle of your own story:

the past has made you who you are in the present, and from here you can see the future where you will accomplish some good and definite goals.

THAT IS THE STORY OF YOU!
Body Paragraphs

Body paragraphs: use the formula but make it yours. Think about the following:

- Educational plan and Career Goals:
  - What is your major?
  - Why did you choose this major?
  - What will you do with it?
  - What career path have you chosen?
  - Why you have chosen this career?
  - How do you intend to meet those goals?
  - Did something or someone happen to influence your career decision?
  - What inspires you to achieve your educational and career goals?
  - How do you know you’ll succeed?
CONCLUSION

- Be focused, return to something from your first paragraph or reiterate your goal.
- Be humble, you plan to work hard to get there but you believe in yourself.
- Be grateful, you realize it took time for someone to read your essay, and you appreciate it.
Do I Have to Write it This Way?

No! These structures are intended to be useful guidelines, and can help you anticipate what your readers expect. But the essay is YOURS; it is the story of YOU; you are the final decider of what you want to say and how.
EDIT AND TIGHTEN IT UP

- Spell check.
- Is it redundant? Are you too brief?
- Go back and look at the outline.
- Does this paper represent YOU?
- Have a friend, teacher or tutor read it.
Letters of Recommendation - Optional

- Many scholarships require letters of recommendation.
- It is helpful if one of those letters is written by a professional in your field of study.
- These letters need to be current, written within the last year.
LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION

Each letter should discuss the following:

- Current academic status.
- Academic and extracurricular achievements.
- Potential for future success.
- Personal qualities, such as motivation, leadership, and commitment.
Activity Chart

An activity chart will help you answer questions about volunteer/work activities. Keep a chart of:

- School/Family/Community Activities
- Responsibilities
- Dates
- Honors/Awards/Office Held
- Paid Jobs

THE “THANK YOU” LETTER

- Be sure to write a thank you letter to your scholarship donor.
- Having a good relationship with your donor can pay off in many ways.
- Write a thank you note to anyone who helped you with the scholarship process.
