- Make sure to select "affordable" in the filter
- Reach out to the properties to inquire about specifics on availability or waitlists

Individual Apartment communities

- Many apartment buildings, especially new construction offer a certain number of lower income apartments within their community
- They make agreements with local government, often prior to building, where they receive incentives to offer a number of their units for below market price
- A search for these apartments can lead to them and often the websites will have a small area to find information about applying
